A+ Career Apparel

A 125-Year History

1893

San Francisco

A+ Career Apparel traces its roots to the founding of Smith Knitting Mills in San Francisco in 1893. The company's single electric motor drove a series of spring-needle knitting machines via an overhead shaft made of pulleys and leather belts. The 6,000-square-foot mill, located in a residential area and attached to the owner's house, looked more like a garage than a factory.

Smith Knitting Mills produced 100-percent wool sweaters and sold them to local merchants. It also produced a 5-pound wool athletic sweater for local schools and colleges, including Stanford University and the University of California, Berkeley. The athletic sweaters featured sleeve stripes and a chenille school logo.

The Knoss family purchased Shannon & Johnson Knitwear in 1973, when the business was in decline. Shannon & Johnson had not invested in technology updates; a shaft-and-belt system still drove the knitting and sewing machines, and a potbelly stove fueled by yarn cartons heated the building. The company now sold fewer than 13,000 sweaters a year.

While hundreds of knitting mills still operated in the United States at the time, few were focused on the school sweater market. Choosing to emphasize that differentiation, the Knoss family renamed the company School Apparel, Inc. and began the rebuilding and rebranding process to reflect a broader clothing offering.

1980

The company grew by focusing on supplying high-quality, easy-care uniforms at a great value and by building a larger inventory to provide faster order fulfillment. In 1980, the family introduced a new career/corporate apparel division, San Francisco Knitting Mills, and expanded their sweater customer base to the United States Postal Service, the U.S. Marine Corps, and the U.S. Navy. The company developed its first fire-retardant sweater for the Navy.

1933

In 1933, the owner of Smith Knitting Mills retired and sold the business to Harry Shannon and Ruby Johnson, who renamed it Shannon & Johnson Knitwear. The school connection continued under the new owners, who began producing two-ply, 100-percent wool cardigan sweaters for Catholic schools.

1974

The following year, the Knoss family purchased a second company, a manufacturer of skirts, jumpers, and blouses for the school uniform market, and merged the two businesses.

1984

Star City, Arkansas

As sales grew regionally and nationally, School Apparel, Inc. began to run out of space. In addition, the San Francisco location was far from raw material suppliers and increasingly expensive to operate. In 1984, the company purchased a former Levi Strauss & Co. factory in Star City, Arkansas, and moved production there. The facility's central location provided better access to materials and a better position from which to ship throughout the U.S.

Mid-1990s

In the mid-1990s, the company renamed its two divisions A+ School Apparel and A+ Career Apparel, and introduced its One-Year Wear-Tested™ Guarantee for all products. In collaboration with the U.S. Postal Service, Monsanto, and a yarn supplier, A+ also developed a proprietary low-pill yarn branded as Pil-trol. The yarn was specified for USPS sweaters, and Monsanto backed the sweater guarantee.

A+ has the largest in-stock product offering in the niche uniform market, supplying corporate uniforms for industries such as transit and transportation, public safety and security, hospitality, aviation, and healthcare, to name a few. Orders ship to customers and distribution partners within eight business hours. Clients who choose the A+ brand include the following notable organizations:

1990 | 2000 | 2010 | 2020

A+ is now the oldest sweater mill in the U.S. At its vertically integrated facility in Arkansas, A+ produces a variety of garments, including what the owners call "the finest sweaters with the finest yarns by the finest people in the world." This 225,000-square-foot location includes state-of-the-art manufacturing, warehousing, and distribution facilities.

The company also has strong partnerships with producers in the Dominican Republic, Mexico, Thailand, and elsewhere, as needed, who manufacture a wide range of woven and knit tops, bottoms, and other apparel products.

Thank you for trusting A+ to provide the best apparel solutions for your everyday needs. We love what we do, and we prove it through exceptional customer care and superior handcrafted goods.

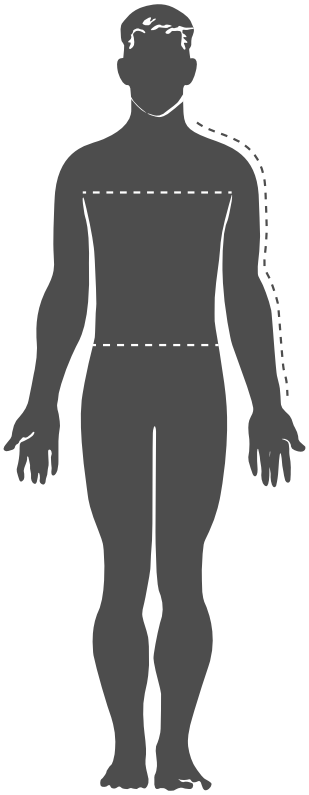
How to Measure

A+ garments are made for comfort and ease of movement. If you're not sure what size to order, take some measurements and use our size charts on the next pages to find the right fit. For both women and men, we recommend measuring over your undergarments, not over other clothing. Wrap a tape measure comfortably around your body; don't make it too tight. You might have to have someone help you.



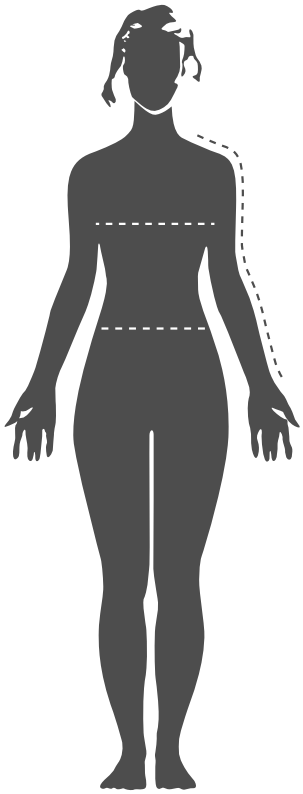
Neck
Measure around the lower part of the neck.

Chest/Bust
Measure around your shoulder blades and the fullest part of your chest, keeping your arms comfortably at your sides.

Waist
Measure around your natural waistline (for men, just below your navel).

Sleeve Length
Measure from the center of the back of your neck, over the top of your shoulder, and down to your wrist. Keep your arms comfortably at your sides.

Inseam
Take this measurement from a nice-fitting pair of pants of a similar style. Measure the garment inseam from the crotch seam to the hem.



Garment Size Charts

(not body fit)

The fit and comfort of any garment will depend on your personal preferences, so these size charts are simply a guide. If you have questions about sizing, please call your dedicated customer service representative at 877-632-7587. We'll be happy to answer your questions!
